

Meditation – My comfort and strength

Comments by Brian Bowen

The theme is that of the twenty-third Psalm as paraphrased by George Herbert (1593-1632) to the tune of University:

1. The God of love my Shepherd is,
And he that doth me feed;
While he is mine and I am his,
What can I want or need?
2. He leads me to the tender grass,
Where I both feed and rest;
Then to the streams that gently pass:
In both I have the best.
3. Or if I stray, he doth convert,
And bring my mind in frame,
And all this not for my desert
But for his holy name
4. Yea, in death's shady black abode
Well may I walk, not fear;
For thou art with me, and thy rod
To guide, thy staff to bear.
5. Surely thy sweet and wondrous love
Shall measure all my days;
And, as it never shall remove,
So neither shall my praise.

The settings - linked by music derived mainly from fragments of the hymn melody - reflect the moods of the psalm imagery.

Introduction – A plain-sounding five bars, alluding to the last eight notes of the tune, commence the pastorale opening. Allow the euphonium in bars 2, 3 and 4 to be distinct in its modal reference to the tune. Keep the triplets in bar 5 relaxed, thereby suiting the context.

Section A – With a slight increase in tempo the theme is presented in full. It will be seen that the flugel horn is particularly important in the first bar, third and fourth beats, being the only melody part.

Section B – Note the separated quavers leading to the fourth bar and place them carefully. A generous crescendo in the sixth bar will complement the steep diminuendo preceding. From the delicato ensure a balance of parts as the writing is somewhat tenuous; the final chord must not have too prominent a low fifth – E on the E♭ bass.

Section C – Additional to the euphonium's important role are the canonic entries by the solo and 1st cornets in the fifth bar; notice the independent dynamic markings. Flugel horn and 1st trombone have a linking figure in the eighth bar calling for warm and sustained playing.

Section D – Built on the first four quavers of the seventh bar of the tune, the music should acquire more movement immediately. At the 2/4 bar and the following two bars the highest volume of sound in the section must be maintained. Here again fragments of the tune are drawn together in changing tonalities. The slentandi in bars 51 and 52 show clearly the idea of rubato at this point. Careful control of tempi and dynamics is essential.

Section E – A free-flowing, quicker setting is required. The smooth ascending scale begun two beats before E by the bass end and continued to the third bar (ended by the soprano, flugel horn and solo horn) is an important thread in the contrapuntal texture; in fact, clarity throughout is essential.

Section F – Once again rubato is shown in the approach to the tranquillo. Allow the soloist flexibility in their short, expressive passages. A slight drawing out of the last beat of the sixth bar before commencing the following sequence will add just a little bounciness to the new chord of A♭ after the C minor tonality. Tranquillity is still important.

Section G – Here begins the preparation for the final setting of the tune. A rhythmic similarity to the opening bars will be noticed. The effect should not be of placidity as before, but rather a building of tension towards a climax. The crescendo builds consistently to the seventh-bar fortissimo. Largamente means slowly, broadly.

Section H – Superfluous as it may seem to say that the melody should stand out, it is nonetheless possible for the upper cornets and tenor trombones to swamp all else in their enthusiasm – should there be any! Adhere to the varying tempi from bar 93, avoiding excesses either way. A guide for the accel. would be to aim for movement of approximately $\text{♩} = 96$ prior to the riten. in bar 97. It may be found helpful to beat out the triplets in bar 99; it certainly will secure a better release as indicated by the commas.

A musical score on four-line staff paper. It features a single vertical bar line on the left. To its right is a short horizontal dash representing a rest. Following the rest is a melodic line consisting of two eighth notes and one sixteenth note.

A musical staff with five horizontal lines. On the first line, there is a note head with a stem pointing up. On the second line, there are two note heads with stems pointing down. On the third line, there is one note head with a stem pointing up. On the fourth line, there are two note heads with stems pointing down. On the fifth line, there is one note head with a stem pointing up.

A musical score page featuring a dynamic instruction "cresc." above a staff. The staff contains three eighth-note heads, all pointing downwards. There is a small horizontal bar with a vertical tick mark positioned between the third and fourth notes.

A musical score showing a melodic line on a staff. The notes include a long horizontal bar, a short vertical bar, a solid black dot, a small open circle, a solid black dot, and a small open circle. There are also several rests indicated by short vertical lines.

The image shows two measures of musical notation. The top measure begins with a half note on the second line, followed by a quarter note on the fourth line, another quarter note on the fourth line, and a half note on the fifth line. The bottom measure begins with a half note on the first line, followed by a quarter note on the third line.

A page of musical notation for orchestra, starting with a ritardando section followed by a dynamic section. The score consists of ten staves. The instrumentation includes two flutes, two oboes, two bassoons, two horns, two trumpets, one tuba, three violins, one viola, and one cello. The key signature is A major (one sharp). The time signature is common time. The music begins with a ritardando (rit.), indicated by a downward arrow above the first staff. The tempo is Largamente $\text{J} = 72$. The dynamics are primarily f (fortissimo), ff (fortississimo), and mf (mezzo-forte). The section ends with a dynamic ff, followed by a measure of rest. The key changes to H (A major) and the tempo becomes Andante sostenuto $\text{J} = 72$. The dynamics remain f and ff.
